Products are included here based on listed ingredients, and inclusion here is not an endorsement. I have no relationships with any listed manufacturers. Always shop with caution.

Skin care products

The products below are examples (there are multiple other options) of products that are free of: Natural and synthetic fragrance additives, formaldehyde, lanolin, and methylchloroisothiazolinone.

NOTE: These recommendations only apply for the exact products listed. Products that are the same brand and have a similar name may not be a safe choice. While we make every effort to provide up-to-date information, product formulations frequently change, so read labels and use caution.

NOTE: All products contain some potential allergens. Patch testing may be required.

NOTE: While these products have worked well for many of my patients, they are not appropriate for everyone. I have found that individuals may react very differently to the same exact product, so always use caution when using a new product. For those with sensitive skin, I recommend testing on the forearm twice daily for one week before using elsewhere.

The products below contain ingredients that are less common causes of allergy.

- BCL = benzalkonium chloride
- CPB = cocamidopropyl betaine
- IPBC = iodopropinyl butylcarbamate
- P = parabens
- PG = propylene glycol
- TR = trolamine
- V = Vitamin E

Cleaning Supplies

- Branch Basics (www.branchbasics.com)

Nickel

- Nickel test kit (does not harm objects): nickelsolution.com or allerderm.com
- Use a clear nail lacquer (from nickelsolution.com) to protect against leaching of nickel
- Ask jeweler to apply a coating (thicker than plating) of rhodium or platinum to protect against nickel

Nickel allergy and jewelry

- Sterling silver and 18K yellow gold are usually OK
- Avoid most white gold (white color achieved by combining gold with either nickel or palladium)
- Always check with jeweler on alloys (even expensive titanium and platinum jewelry may be alloyed with nickel)

Formaldehyde-Free Clothing

- OK: 100% silk, 100% polyester, most 100% denim
- AVOID: wrinkle-free cotton
